EXPANDING THE SPECTRUM

LIFE JOURNEYS TIMES THREE

DISTANCING

As many of you know, I started a journey in printmaking in the last several years. And what a journey it is! I have added a Printmaking Studio and experimented in a variety of styles within this medium.

My new collection, Life Journeys Times Three, steps into the world of Triptychs. This expansion from one monotype to three with a continued theme through all three art pieces is quite the challenge. Not only is it a challenge to sync each piece but it is also physically demanding. The results however are amazing. The Triptych gives expanse of size and flexibility to frame individually or to place on a single background as you see above. They can be horizontal or vertical as Evolution illustrates. "Evolution" is really the key word in this journey I am experiencing.

I was invited to hold my own exhibit at Gallery 903 in Portland, Oregon starting June 5th with an artist reception. Over 100 guests came to the preview of my work. It was a festive occasion, and a wonderful opportunity to share my passion with art collectors. My exhibit continues through the
